Holle
baby food

Holle baby food is not affected by the current infant formula recall.

Several brands of infant formula are currently being recalled due to the possible detection of the toxin cereulide in the ingredient ARA (arachidonic acid).

We can hereby confirm the following:

- Holle milk formulas are not affected by the recall.
- Our European supplier of the ingredient ARA is not involved in the recall.
- Holle milk formulas can be used without any concerns.

As a manufacturer of baby food, we bear a special responsibility towards our youngest consumers. Holle therefore makes every effort to offer exclusively products that meet the highest standards of quality and safety.